and Recovery-Oriented Services
VA Connecticut Healthcare System, West Haven, CT

Program Overview

The post CPE fellowship provides one year of postgraduate education, clinical learning and research opportunities to eligible physicians and associated health professionals (including chaplains, occupational therapists, psychiatrists, psychologists, and social workers). Mentors of national stature provide guidance to fellows in rich learning environments. Graduates are expected to be role models in leading, developing, conducting, and evaluating innovative clinical care in health issues pertaining to psychosocial rehabilitation and community mental health. Based at the nationally recognized Errera Community Care Center of VA Connecticut, multidisciplinary mental health professionals provide an array of community-based rehabilitative programs including day and crisis intervention programs (for individuals struggling with mental illness and/ or substance abuse disorders, homelessness, and/or aging), vocational programs, housing programs, homeless outreach and engagement, advocacy and clinical case management programs. Our program has a strong commitment to training fellows about social justice and advocacy. The curriculum will focus upon the development of skills in leadership and scholarly work and will comprise contact with faculty mentors with wide-ranging interests in community mental health. Fellows will be undertaking innovative outcome-based work and facilitating the transformation of the national VA mental health care system from a traditional, hospital-based system to an information-driven, community-based system whose focus is partnering with consumers within their natural environments. Fellows attend weekly theoretical and applications seminars and receive clinical supervision. Salary for post CPE Fellows is $. Federal benefits provided. PSR Fellows receive Yale affiliation appointments.

Project

The selected fellow will participate in a variety of interprofessional clinical, psychoeducational and program evaluation efforts. Fellows develop individualized projects with close mentoring from faculty; projects may include research in areas such as peer support, mental health service outcomes, and vocational and neurocognitive rehabilitation; the development of new clinical programs; and consultation with community partners. Many opportunities exist for participating in ongoing collaborative research and scholarly writing. It is expected that at least one of these efforts will be a significant project to which the fellow makes a substantive, independent, and identifiable contribution.
